A despatch from Philadelphia says: "Governor Stone is furnishing the amusement for the present campaign. Democratic leaders will not cease for many a day to chuckle over the ease with which they trapped the governor into committing himself and his machine associates on the question of trust in politics. It was too good a story to keep and it soon leaked out. Democratic managers had been puzzling their brains how to give the trust issue a prominent place in the campaign. Those who drafted the Republican platform had been shrewd enough to avoid the slightest mention of the subject. That left the way open to judge the issue in whatever form the Democrats might present it. Finally, so the story goes, somebody hit on the idea of prompting a leading Democratic paper of New York to request Stone, in an incidental way, to give his opinion on the trust question. Stone fell into the trap head over heels. His published answer could not have expressed just what the Democrats desired him to say more clearly if they themselves had written it."

The machine governor defiantly asserted that "the question of trusts is not a political question." The executive argues that instead of being an evil, trusts are the pleasant fruit of prosperity. Taking their cue from their chief, other prominent machine men have lifted their voices in defense of monopoly. State Senator William H. Andrews says: "I believe, as Governor Stone says, that they (trusts) are less an evil and more a power for good than anything else."

Stone, Andrews and others have put themselves on record in a way that will materially strengthen the cause of Democracy. The Republicans of Pennsylvania made a mistake when they ignored trusts in their platform. The leaders of the party made another blunder when they arrayed themselves and their organization upon the side of the oppressors of the people. The subject of trusts just now is attracting the attention of the whole country and the most prominent statesmen of the nation are earnestly seeking the best means of overthrowing the evil.

When the voter comes to decide how he shall cast his ballot he will take into consideration the position of the two parties on this important issue. On the one hand he will see that the owners of the machine-controlled Republican party is in favor of the combine which controls the cost of the necessities of life, while, on the other hand the Democratic party is unalterably opposed to this octopus, whose tenacious tentacles are so numerous and so far-reaching.

In a recent speech Congressmen Lentz, of Ohio, said:

CRIMINAL PERVERSION. "The honesty and sincerity of the administration are shown by the mutilation of a despatch from General Otis. The war department gave out the despatch as follows:

"Volunteers willing to remain."

"I went to the war department and asked for the original, and it read:

"Volunteers unwilling to re-enlist, but willing to remain till transports arrive."

This is an example of the way the Republican administration is acting toward the people. It has truly been said that the mutilation of that despatch was criminal perversion. It was the most mischievous misrepresentation that could have been made. It was a lie of the deepest die. Nearly every day there is fresh evidence that the government is deceiving the public.

DO IT YOURSELF.

It is easy to tell whether your kidneys are diseased. Take a bottle or glass tumbler and fill it with urine. If there is a sediment—a powder-like substance—after standing a day and night, there is something wrong with the kidneys. Other signs of disease are a desire to urinate often, pain in the back, or if your urine stains linen.

There is no question that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best and surest medicine in the world for diseases of the kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Chronic Constipation. It quickly relieves and cures inability to hold urine and the necessity of getting up a number of times during the night. It puts an end to that searing pain when passing urine and corrects the bad effects of whisky and beer. It is sold for one dollar a bottle at all drug stores.

Send your full postoffice address to the DR. DAVID KENNEDY CORPORATION, Ronclout, N. Y., and mention this paper. They will then mail you a trial bottle of Favorite Remedy and a valuable medical pamphlet free, giving full directions for its use. Every reader of THE GAZETTE can depend upon the genuineness of this liberal offer, and all sufferers from the diseases mentioned above should take advantage of it at once.

The Hannan administration is cul-terly silent on the Cap-

tal Carter case—

and the miscreant remains at liberty, enjoying the luxuries purchased with the money he pilfered from the people.

Would such a stain be permitted to besmirch the escutcheon of the nation under any other than a Republican government?

It is doubtful if this country has ever seen the equal of the Hanna-McKinley-Platt-Carter combination. This clique's impudence and utter disregard of public opinion are unparalleled in the annals of history. There seems to be no limit to their acts of lawlessness.

The sentence of Captain Carter has been pronounced. It only requires the approval of President McKinley to make it effective. This he has withheld for over a year. Captain Carter has been found guilty of defrauding the government out of more than a million and a half dollars. He is still wearing his uniform, going about as he pleases, and spending the money he extorted from the government of the United States. Many a poor fellow who has unlawfully obtained the means to buy bread for his hungry little ones is languishing behind the bars while his master is starving. The Carter case will be a thorn in the flesh of the Republican president-makers when they again undertake the task of placing their pliant tool in the chief executive's chair.

NO Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has consumption or kidney trouble her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruption and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only $10 cents at Irvine & Co's Drug Store.

Thumb Marks.

It seems an astonishing thing that the natural signature, the impression of the thumb or finger tip, is not used to a greater extent than it is for purposes of identification. If the thumb be lightly pressed upon a surface smeared with printing ink, and then pressed upon clean paper, an impression is obtained which is distinctive for the particular individual who owns the member. No two thumbs or fingers are alike in the arrangement of their innumerable lines; each, therefore, is a seal which is unique, and a seal which cannot readily be mislaid or lost.

The French police use this test to assure themselves of the identity of a prisoner; but surely the system could be usefully extended. A newspaper correspondent who recently pleaded for such an extension of the thumb-mark test, stated that once when abroad he was in great straits for money, although he held checks for a considerable amount, simply because he could not prove his identity. If the local banker had only had an impression of his finger-tip, as well as authority to pay, all difficulty would at once have been removed.—Detroit Free Press.

Victims of the Sea.

The annual report of General Dun-mot, the supervising inspector general of steamboat inspection, shows that the total number of accidents to steam vessels in the United States during the year was 48, of which seven were fire, 13 collisions, eight breaking steam-pipes, two explosions and 18 from snags, wrecks and sinking. The loss of life was 404, an increase over the previous year of 123. Of this number the cause of death in 88 cases was accidental drowning, 213 from wrecks, etc., 13 from fire, 31 from collisions, 24 from explosions or accidental escape of steam and 37 from miscellaneous causes. Of the whole number 153 were passengers and 246 belonged to crews of vessels. The increase in the loss of life in 1898 over the year 1897 was due to the loss of the steamer Portland, of the Massachusetts coast during a gale on the night of November 27, 1898, wherein every soul board, 127, perished.

DEWEY'S VICTORY.

The General Will Receive a Royal Welcome When He Returns to His Native Land.

Special correspondence of The GAZETTE.
New York, September 19.—As the day approaches when in its patriotic strength a great republic arises to bid her son welcome back to his native land it seems as if his patriotic service magnifies and grows greater and grander and we seek in vain for a parallel in the history of the past.

The battle which links the name of Dewey with immortality was virtually fought within two or three hours. He took one of the most desperate chances to get at his enemy ever recorded in the naval history of the world. The harbor, from its mouth right up to the city of Manila, was one deadly nest of destroying torpedoes like that sent which the magnificient battleship Maine a hopeless ruin to the bottom of Havana's harbor.

It is impossible to estimate the terrible mental strain which one undergoes when passing through such an ordeal and feeling that death is in its most appalling form may hurl you to destruction any moment. Another view of the daring character of the commander is that the highest demand of duty required no such sacrifice. If he had kept his enemy safely imprisoned in Manila harbor and prevented his escape, it was all he could have fairly asked of him; the spirit of his old commander was seething within him and would give him no peace. Sleeping or waking he can see his brave old commander lashed in the shrubs as he grimly sweeps past the fortids amid a hurricane of deadly hail and flame, from which there seemed to be no possible escape.

More than thirty years have elapsed and the "broad" which brave old Admiral Farragut had "brought upon the waters" has returned after many days. It was a moment of tremendous responsibility. Success can only be purchased at fearful sacrifice and failure means official damnation to the fool who led hundreds of brave men to that fearful carnival of Death. The historian who shall tell our story to generations yet unborn, if Dewey had failed on that memorable May day, would have placed his mad dead alongside of Lord Cardigan's sacrificed at Balaklava, when he led the gallant 600 to the most useless, bloody and shameful sacrifice of brave men ever recorded in history; or Picket's last charge on the blood-bought field of Gettysburg. Since the first record of time began nowhere can be found a parallel to the phenomenal battle of Manila; such complete and terrible destruction, on the one hand, and almost entire exemption from injury and danger, on the other. Not a man killed or a victory of its kind ever recorded in the history of the world.

Never before have I read of such a magnificent reception as the people of the United States with one accord are waiting to greet her victorious son. It is a glorious thing to see a great nation rise up without distinction of religion or politics, without any of the differences which usually mark all such undertakings, and to see her own stand singly and alone without any of the jealousies which usually exist among men of his own class; but soldier and sailor, Democrat and Republican, eagerly rush forward to meet him as he puts his foot back on his native land once more. When the millions turn out to greet him the victory at Manila and the destruction of the Spanish fleet were all that required reparation, yet the annihilation of the Spanish fleet, on which depended the salvation of Spain, is but a small part of the imperial service he has rendered to his land. I tremble when I think of what would have occurred if these great warships should have escaped into the open sea. There would have gone up a cry along our shores for thousands of miles, a cry more bitter than that of the waters of Marsh. Aye, more bitter than that which wrung the heart of the stricken Rachel when she mourned for her children and refused to be comforted because they were not. Viewed in every possible light, with a searchlight of judgment into the heart's inner recesses, and whatever way our great admiral's victory is viewed, it is the most perfect of his kind ever recorded by man. Firstly, in the daring character of the attack; secondly, in the result; thirdly, the complete destruction of the enemy he sought; and lastly, without the loss of a single man, which is the crowning glory of that victorious day; the broad and generous humanity as exhibited to a fallen foe. No one claims a share in the victory won or the honor conferred upon our hero.

Every state claims a place on the golden roll where Fame has inscribed the immortal name of Dewey.

All the streets along which the procession is to pass are covered with immense gatherings and the windows of private houses bringing from $50 to $100 each. While I write petitions come pouring in by the thousand for allotments in the grand parade. Little Connecticut, true to her old time loyalty, comes to greet her patriot son with her governor and his brilla, staff and her rank and file, over 1,000 strong.

Passing along the streets one begins to realize the magnitude of the preparations. On either side grand stands have been erected, capable of seating thousands upon thousands. Never before in our history has such honor been paid as that which the nation joins in celebrating the victory of Manila, complete in all its departments. For all time Admiral Dewey's name and example will be held as an object lesson for the youths of this land, and every nation of the globe, except a few disgruntled people who would not be satisfied with the most perfect thing ever conceived by the brain of man unless they had a finger in the pie. "Only this and nothing more."

I have given up guessing. I can only wait. The country seemed to emphasize its welcome to her victorious son when she told him to use his flagship as a pleasure yacht and to take his son on his homeward journey. A nation's love and welcome await him.

Here we must pause for a moment to review the passing scenes of our every day life, not forgetting that the every day life will survive the grand pageantry and all the living factors that comprise it.

Last week the fashionable hotel at

was erected by the late A. T. Stewart and was one of the factors by which he hoped to deserve well of posterity long after he had passed away. Among the benevolent schemes that failed was a home for friendless girls, where rooms could be had for twelve dollars a week, terms invariably in advance. If they failed on the advance rent they were turned into the street. They could not see their mother or sisters in their own rooms, but must meet them in the public parlor, overlooked by a half a hundred others. No eat or bird or pet of any kind was allowed to be kept in the rooms; no pictures on the walls; no carpet on the floor; a sewing machine in your room, and to wash a pocket handkerchief was equal to manslaughter in the thirty-sixth degree. A flower pot on the window sill was morally wicked and was placed in the female rogues' gallery as irremovable. Boarders must be in at 8:30; fifteen minutes must be allowed for a meal; lights must be extinguished at 9 o'clock. The law in regard to the width of the gauge and the tires of the wagons is strictly enforced. The felles and tires of all farm wagons must be not less than 4 inches; of rock and heavy freight wagons, from 6 to 8 inches.

"The roads are kept in order by men who have charge of certain sections, under the supervision of the roadmaster. The man who keeps his section of the road in the best order during the year receives compensation from the roadmaster for performance of faithful service which testimonial is looked upon by the labor as a great honor.

The building went on and was about half finished when another charitable scheme seized one of his speculations, which would pay him 12 per cent, so he dropped the Girls' Home and left it with no windows to keep out the storm and it was the home of the bats and the owls for years; when Judge Hilton finished it. Judge Hilton had a sharp eye for the vagrant dollar and never showed it to better advantage than at the dedication of Garden City at the dedication of the Hounds' Home and the central seat of government for the Episcopal church, on which there was a grand shaking of hands and the dominies were delivered to Judge Hilton such a libelous Christian gentleman, but on their return the following year each minister found a nice little bill on his desk for the dinner he had eaten the years before. I won't say that the good domes were bad, but it looked so possible like it.

No doubt it was this memory that haunted the dying millions—when he saw the dead Angel of Death waiting outside the portal that divides the living and the dead; with repulsion he watched to seize the trembling soul when the last breath had gone out from the living body. It was then that the little band that surrounded him heard the last despairing cry of the soul lost. "Too late, too late, too late." The last act of consecration was necessary before the body could be laid in its final resting place. It was then laid in vault in New York, from whence the remains were stolen, the thieves demanding $1,000 ransom for its recovery. Judge Hilton, who had the greatest idea of his own smartness, set a trap to catch the thieves and save his cash, and refused. So, when they found themselves closely pursued, they threw the worthless remains into Lake Champlain, and there they will lay till the Judgment Day. The wretched vanity of the great millionaire is departed. No grand organ will celebrate his coming as the deep diapason wakes the earth and the hymn of awaiting angels join in the mighty "Blessed are they who die in the Lord."

BROADBRIM.

Wendell Phillips, and others

When Wendell Phillips was last in Washington he was for a few days on the floor of the United States senate, surrounded by a group of senators, whom he always favorite with Mr. Phillips. It happened that a few days before this time Mr. Blaine, in presenting to congress the statue of Governor King, first governor of Maine, to be placed in the rotunda of the capitol, had commented severely on the loyalty of Massachusetts, and especially the Federalist party, during the war with Great Britain in 1812.

Of this party the father of Wendell Phillips, John Phillips, was a conspicuous member. When Blaine and others were senators from Massachusetts, and they both essayed some sort of an impromptu reply thereto, but did them selves little credit in parrying the thrusts of Blaine's glittering rapier.

So, when Wendell Phillips met Blaine on this occasion, he said to him laughingly, "I wish I had been a member of this body for about as long the other day when you made that speech attacking the Massachusetts Federalists."

"Ah," said Mr. Blaine, "you had better wait with never heard that speech!"—Harper's Magazine.

Some Famous Faces.

Napoleon, with a face as if it had been modeled from a Greek cameo, was never, in Talleyrand's judgment, so good as when he was young. The "Empereur" of the Littes in days when that distinction meant so much.

The officers of the division have been in communication with prominent men throughout the country, particularly those interested in the good roads movement and in this way have received unexpected encouragement. It seems to be the consensus of opinion that the use of convicts is the only way in which the roads of the country can be speedily and economically placed in proper condition for traffic at all seasons of the year. In urging the use of the class of some of the advocates show that in such case they would not be coming into contact with any class of free labor, as the improvement of the public roads in the United States has progressed so little that there is no such thing as a road building trade, and, again, it is pointed out that good roads are for the entire people, and the convicts, being supported by the people, should be made to do their duty.

The division will use the matter it is collecting as the basis for a bill to be presented in the next legislature.

State Aid For Roads.

The state aid system does not interfere in any way with present methods of road building, but simply provides a means by which an enterprising country community, desirous to possess first class highways, may obtain financial assistance for the purpose from the state. The state does not pay for building such roads, but simply contributes to the cost of maintaining public schools, which are conducted by the local school officials, but which, to receive state assistance, must be up to a certain standard.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Louisville, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This miraculous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular size 60 cents and Tonic. Retail bottles free at Irvine & Co's Drug Store; "Bub" gave the skeleto in the corner. "Why didn't she feel of his pulse?"—Bub's Commercial.

The Cossacks.

Cossacks form the volunteer cavalry of southern Russia. They provide themselves with horses, uniforms and weapons and serve as guards to the highways and perform certain other military duties on demand of the governor of the district in which they live, in return for which service they are relieved from taxation to a certain extent. Their costumes are picturesque, and they have a worldwide reputation for the excellence and daring of their horsemanship.

ROADS OF SILESIA.

Narrow Tires Prohibited and Trees Brought and Shaded.

"The roads of Silesia are kept in splendid condition," writes United States Consul C. W. Erdman from Breslau to the state department.

"The turnpikes through the Silesia are about 100 feet wide.

Three-fourths of the width is made smooth, and on both sides is natural dirt road, and on both sides is a better condition than a road many macadamized streets that I have seen in the United States. A good reason for this is that the felloes and tires of the wheels are never less than 3 inches and sometimes 8 inches, and the gauge of all wagons, whether carriage, truck or farm wagon, must be 1 1/2 meters (4.92 feet). This law in regard to the width of the gauge and the tires of the wagons is strictly enforced. The felloes and tires of all farm wagons must be not less than 4 inches; of rock and heavy freight wagons, from 6 to 8 inches.

The cast iron for it was a mere trifle.

We got one pair of wheels and spindles from an old machine that we had worn out on the farm, the others were bought for 50 cents at a nearby sale. We bought also less than 50 cents worth of bolts, all told, at our village hardware store. The rest of the material was furnished from our lumber pile and shop. The work was done by the writer at our farm workshop—where we have a forge. Three or four days' work at old time rates were required for the purpose.

Tribute of Respect.

WEDNESDAY, Miss Mattie Yount, an esteemed and dearly beloved member of our class (No. 1), has suddenly met her untimely death, at the age of 21, by lightning on Monday, August 20, 1890.

WHEREAS, it has pleased Almighty God to call thus suddenly from our midst this bright and promising青年. That in this sad affliction we recognize the inscrutable providence of God, and while we mourn this untimely death of our friend, yet we comfort ourselves with the prospects and full hope of life and promise, who humbly bow to the will of God, who doeth all things.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the family and relatives of our dear classmate in this great affliction, and commend to the care of our God, our heavenly Father, the mystery of providence are ordered in wisdom and love.

"Not now, but the coming year, It may be in the better land, We'll bear the meaning of our tears, And then, sometimes, we'll understand."

"Then trusting God through all thy days, We'll do our duty, and then, when the day of trial comes, we'll sing and praise, Sometime, sometime we'll understand."

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Reformed Church Messenger, the Reformed Church Record and both church papers.

Resolved, That these resolutions be placed on the minutes of our Sunday school and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

Still More Counterfeiting. The Secret Service has unearthened another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected by counterfeiters for imitation, notably the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. The Bitters sets things right in the stomach, and when the stomach is in good order it makes good blood and plenty of it. In this manner the Bitters gets at the seat of strength and vitality, and restores vigor to the weak and debilitated. Beware of counterfeits when buying.

SEPTEMBER 20.—Jacob Kinney, the champion bee-keeper, has twenty-four colonies and plenty of nice honey. He was kind enough to present your scribe with a box of it.

Rev. D. M. Stearns and family, who had been in this place since the first of the month, left to-day for their home in Germantown. While here Rev. Stearns gave a series of fourteen Bible talks in the four town churches and without doubt accomplished a good work. On last Lord's Day morning a union Communion service was held in the Reformed church, in which all the denominations took part. Rev. Stearns preached the sermon and Rev. W. A. Lepley, of the M. E. church, and Rev. John Brubaker, of the Lutheran, assisted the pastor in the service. Rev. Stearns is a Canadian by birth and is of Scotch-Irish descent. He is pastor of a Reformed Episcopal congregation in Germantown. He has a remarkable memory and is thoroughly conversant with his Bible. He made the Bible appear to some as a new book, fresh and inspiring. He has made extensive travels around the globe and said that everywhere he found that people were hungry for the Word of God.

GIDEON.

September 20.—A question for the medical examiner of the board of health of Bedford county to decide is whether the disease that is prevalent in the western part of this township is diphtheria or not. One of the physicians treating some of the cases says it is not diphtheria, while another treating other cases says emphatically that it is diphtheria. It is well known that the disease is contagious and all families who have it should be quarantined. There is one family on our side of Chestnut Ridge that has it and some of the family are very sick and there are several cases in Elshtown that came from one of the parties sewing in a family that was suffering with the disease. If it is diphtheria or any other contagious disease the doctors should let it be known and action should be taken to stop its spreading. The schools in this township commenced on Monday and children from the infected families should not be allowed to attend, if the disease is as bad as reported, and it is a fact that one has died from it. This matter should be investigated at once.

I have been spoken to by several correspondents of THE GAZETTE and INQUIRER in regard to a reunion of the correspondents' reunion and banquet? Let us hear from all correspondents on this subject.
